However, once a professional photoshop user has learned the ropes, they find that Photoshop is a bit too complicated and overwhelming for a lot of photo alteration. Many prefer the simplicity and flexibility of the GIMP. You can download Photoshop for Windows from the Adobe website. Macs can run Photoshop, but you need to use Mac OS X 10.4 or later. For a free Linux version, check out the Adobe website. Linux Users: Photoshop is available for Linux systems on the website of the respective software developer, www.adobe.com. ## Finding Images to Download You can find any number of stock photos — images you can use with your own photographs — on the web. There are many stock image galleries on the web. Some are free, but most cost money. Some websites offer a collection of images that you can download in a ZIP file. The same goes for premium (paid) image websites. Adobe has a full page of free web resources at You can use free image search engines such as Image Search, TinEye, and Google to find a photo that may have a similar look to your photo. For example, if you're taking a photo of a window, you may come across a picture of a window, but with a snow scene behind it (see Figure 4-1). Image Search is probably the most recognizable of the three image search engines. Simply enter some words related to the image you want, and Image Search will display a set of similar images. (We cover this technique in depth in Chapter 11, "Searching for Images.") FIGURE 4-1: Search the web for a similar photo using Google Image Search. Other search engines, such as TinEye and Raw Searcher, work in much the same way. They let you search for specific types of files, such as images, documents, or PDFs. Instead of coming up with similar results as Image Search does, though, they actually look for similar documents and return them. In other words, they match the shape of a file — or sometimes the features — with a known document and returns the results. You can also use the search function in your favorite image-editing application to do a similar thing. Many image editing applications that offer a search feature or keyword search also offer a separate search that performs a more

In the period of 2019-2020 you can expect to see VTA accelerate the implementation of the all-electric bus fleet. The Italian competition regulators (AGCM) at the end of February announced that VTA's 2030 Green Plan will include electric buses, and furthermore that the buses for low-capacity services will be tested in June-July 2019 and delivered in 2020. In recent years, the VTA has ordered a number of electric buses, for the low-capacity routes around Los Angeles. Project leader Mike Smith has said that 25 of these medium-sized buses (class B), with a capacity of 36 seats, will be ready by the end of this year. But these low-capacity buses will include no-charge battery capacity of only 6.5 kWh. In the period of 2019-2020 you can expect to see VTA accelerate the implementation of the all-electric bus fleet. Source: VTA "We will be buying class B buses with energy capacity of 12 kWh, the first of which in August 2019," Smith recently said. In the period of 2019-2020 you can expect to see VTA accelerate the implementation of the all-electric bus fleet. Source: VTA The next type of bus to be bought will be the class A buses with an energy capacity of 20 kWh. In the period of 2019-2020 you can expect to see VTA accelerate the implementation of the all-electric bus fleet. Source: VTA "We have purchased seven class A buses with an energy capacity of 20 kWh, and one with an energy capacity of 23 kWh, for $12.5 million (Euros) as of May 2019. And we should begin testing and deliver them in 2020, with the first half of the 2020 route survey," Smith said. In the period of 2019-2020 you can expect to see VTA accelerate the implementation of the all-electric bus fleet. Source: VTA Two of these class A buses are already in use on the route #10V, which serves the Crenshaw neighborhood. In the period of 2019-2020 you can expect to see VTA accelerate the implementation of the all-electric bus fleet. Source: VTA The VTA currently operates about 400 buses, which run around the City of Los Angeles and County of Los Angeles. Of this total, 20 percent are already all-electric, 30 percent Spectrophotometric determination of chlorpromazine hydrochloride with Trolox C and sulphanilic acid derivatives as the reagent-developing agents. Optimization of the photometric reaction involving the reaction of chlorpromazine hydrochloride (CPZ) with Trolox C and sulphanilic acid derivatives in the presence of ortho-phenylenediamine (OPD) has been carried out. The reaction is followed by the decrease of absorbance of the resulting dye at 494 nm. The method is based on measuring the absorbance of OP (OD) which increases with increasing absorbance of the resulting complex. The method was applied to CPZ tablets analysis and the results were compared with the reported method. The method is based on the reaction between free hydroxyl groups of the drug and -COOH groups of the drug of OPD leading to the formation of a complex with absorption maxima at 494 nm. The reaction rate and the concentration of the reagent OPD were determined according to the absorbance of the final reaction product at 494 nm. The optimum reaction conditions were found to be pH 6.5, 10 microM OPD, 90 microM Trolox C and ratio of the amounts of reagent to CPZ (1.4×10^{-4} M) for measuring 200 microg/ml CPZ. The proposed method was applied to the determination of CPZ in pharmaceutical dosage form. The results were compared with those obtained using the reported spectrophotometric method.

Q: Java generic types Why does the following code (from RuntimeException.getStackTraceElement(int)) return a StackTraceElement array not of type[i]? private static StackTraceElement[] getStackTraceElement(int i, T t) { return t.getStackTraceElement(i); } Also, I fail to understand why is the following possible: private static StackTraceElement getStackTraceElement(int i, T t) { Also, does anybody have a clear explanation on the first question, and an explanation on why I can call t.getStackTraceElement(i) Thanks A: Why does the following code (from `RuntimeException.getStackTraceElement(int)`) return a `StackTraceElement` array
