The statement said Russian Helicopters India is looking to expand its operations into at least three more specialised segments including naval, offshore and maintenance services for the Army and the Navy. "The company is intending to take up some new orders for the UH-60 Blackhawk helicopters for its customers in the navy, the Indian army and the Indian Air Force," the statement said. The company plans to shift the UH-60 Blackhawk operation to the "Lockheed Martin Helicopter Inc, Virginia, USA". "This will entail firstly to gain Lockheed Martin's financial support. The company has already received technical inputs from the company," the statement said. The statement said the company plans to take up these new orders, in a phased approach.

BUT IN THE PREHISTORY OF GAMING, GAMES USED TO BE EASIER, IN TERMS OF CONTROLS, AND YOU DIDN'T NEED DEXTEROUS SKILLS TO WIN! HEY GUYS, AS YOU ALL KNOW IT THROUGHOUT MY VLOGS AND YT VLOGS, IN THE EARLY DAYS OF PC GAMING - MULTIPLAYER WAS ALL WE HAD. MOST GAMES ONLY HAD LAN MODE, MAN I ALWAYS HAD A LAPTOP BACK THEN!!! WE HAD SOME VERY EXCITING MULTIPLAYER CHALLENGES THOUGH, LIKE RUNNING AROUND BULLS, MATCHMATES, GETTING RAPPED ON BY A DWARF, LASER TAG TAG TAG, AND MANY OTHER ASININE THINGS. BUT THOSE WERE THE GOOD OLD DAYS... published:03 Feb 2018 views:14569 BattleTech: The Crescent Moon Challenge by the Mekturian Council In an alternate history, the Federated Commonwealth unifies the two human-dominated factions under one banner. Get Together In New York U.S. Amateur National Cycling Championship (Nov/Dec 2014) National champions in a classic sport is a proud moment THE fourth- and final of the 2014 Carlton Cars National, held at home in early November, has followed the usual pattern throughout the 21 years it has been running. After a qualifying competition at the same venue, the top 30 riders in the field of over 750 riders had their days equally split between track sessions on the banking of the velodrome, a hard ride in the highlands, and final sprints in the arena. This year, however, circumstances dictated that business would be done much earlier, so that riders would have a few more days in New York before taking off on the long flight home. In the home team Carlton Cars team, the usual Tinkoff-Saxo team had already assembled their squads and were primed for action. They were joined by Team Jelly Belly, a group of company riders who travel on bikes with the name. They were led by Dutch pair of Michiel van den Hoogenband and Jens Debusschere, who had a prodigious week of racing already under their belts, with trips to the Dutch national championship in late August and a few races in the Eneco Tour in September. Knowing that not everyone in the team was used to racing in the saddle, Titouan Gabalda (FDJ) was added to the team. Last year the legendary French rider had ridden with Jelly Belly, and this season he had also made the transition from the team's run of U23 world championship successes to Continental level. Paul Martens would say of Gabalda's appointment, "The man is a legend." The riders had to pinch themselves to get into the team car for the ride to the airport. And as the cars pulled away, they found themselves a little surprised, not by the previous running order, but

by the riders who had been left at home. The final selection was made from a pretty wide field. There were around 60 entries and the top 30 riders qualified automatically, which meant that there were more than 60 top-level riders who should have been in the team car. Ceesay Le Merlus was the only rider in the top 30 to be overlooked. The rest of the teams' selections were down to the riders who had been cleared of any wrongdoing after the year's World Championships in Richmond, BC in early September - which is a lot of riders - and then
