a couple of years later, and I wanted to make something special for something I did with a friend in her car, because she had a bright orange roof. A couple of years later, her car was on the list to be recycled and I got a nice find - the only thing that was left was the door handle, which had a backlit logo of the girl's name in orange. So I made a pendant out of it, which she adores! And I am very happy that the door handle brings more good to this world as another pendant that wasn't going to get recycled. I think that is a great idea. I might have to get back to some of the homes and share that with them. Thanks for sharing! Absolutely!! I'm all about repurposing. I love the idea of these storm door knobs to make rings. My parents bought me a ring when I was in high school. I had no idea at the time that it would hold great sentimental value for me. When I was in high school, my dad got me a family vacation to Disney World. When we got there, I couldn't find it anywhere! After a few hours, one of the cast members found my mom, who had signed the guest book. Because the person I thought was my mom had signed, I told the cast member that I thought it was my mother's signature.

After about 10 minutes, she stepped over to us and said, "Oh, I'm sorry, you said you were missing your father? I could tell you where your father's signature is." When she stepped over, a black light had been placed over my signiture and she had taken a picture of the writing. When I went home, I showed my mom and she was so excited! She has shown me that same picture almost every time I visit and it is a favorite memory of mine. The whole concept and idea of home decor and repurposing inspires me and I enjoy it all the more when I can bring something back to a friend or the next owner of the house. Another thing I enjoy doing is making maps for my friends to hang. I find that when I create a map, I visualize the space in the home and it is nice to see my friend's space come to life through my artwork. It's like a little pocket of color to hold dear to them. I'm a bit of a repurposer myself. I've bought a couple of items and just

What's New in the Photoshop 2021 (Version 22.5.1)?

The present invention relates generally to electrical power generation and distribution and, in particular, to conversion of alternating current to direct current. A variety of electrical devices utilize direct current (DC) electrical power for operation. For example, large scale DC power may be provided to large scale DC electric motors, such as those used in electric power plants, for operation. A number of such large scale DC electric motors may be used as a single unit, referred to herein as a motorized unit. Typically, a motorized unit includes a DC power inlet as well as a DC power outlet, also referred to herein as a DC outlet. Such a DC power inlet and DC power outlet may be externally connected to the motorized unit. However, in some applications, each of the motors may be directly connected to a power source by either a suitable power line or power cable. In both the motorized unit and the power source, a DC voltage is provided. Typically, the DC voltage is provided to the motorized unit at a voltage that is either constant or variable. A DC supply capable of providing the variable DC voltage may include a voltage converter, also known as a variable speed drive. The voltage converter receives a DC voltage at one or more input ports and provides an output DC voltage. The output DC voltage corresponds to a variable DC voltage with a constant ratio between the DC input voltage and the DC output voltage. The variable output DC voltage may be used, for example, to provide DC power to a motorized unit. In many applications, the voltage converter in the DC supply will have a DC input voltage that is significantly higher than the DC output voltage, thereby requiring that the voltage converter be significantly oversized. That is, the voltage converter is configured to provide a relatively high DC output voltage while operating under relatively severe conditions. As a result, a significant amount of power may be required to operate the voltage converter. In addition, a large amount of current may need to be provided to the DC input and the DC output by the voltage converter in order to provide the required high DC output voltage. As a result, significant electrical power may be lost by the voltage converter.1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an image encoding apparatus for encoding an image by orthogonally transforming an original image, and an image decoding apparatus for decoding an encoded image. 2. Description of the Related Art As one of image encoding techniques, the applicant has proposed an image encoding method called ADRC (Adaptive Dynamic Range C
