Elden Throwth:

Theres a variety of Elden Rings out there that provide different skills to be rated. This is mainly where the difference lies. What and how you rate the skills will heavily influence your class.

One of the challenges in this game is learning how to rate them. Tell everyone what skills you give each of your 5 active skills an appropriate rating. 3 Stars is good, 2 stars means average, but less than 1 means a skill has a flaw.

My skills are all 3 stars, the reason why is because I played a number of classes in the same expansion pack and learnt from those.

It is also a good choice to play if you have more interest in magic than in having the strongest combat.

Theres also a lot of different possibilities for your own Elden Throwth. If you dont know what to choose, then choose the one that aligns with the theme of your character.

Cogmind is a fresh start for the card game. It has just been recently released and is currently under revision. There are still lots of time and effort invested in this game as it is still both a proof of concept and a polished and refined game. Outside of this, no hidden agendas or anything of that sort.

Patch notes will come somewhat sooner, likely after there are enough changes made to the game. When a game is still being worked on, there will be a good number of daily bugs that need fixing, the current estimate is about 1 bug fixed per day.

Please notify the developers if you find bugs or if there are things you wish to have implemented.
