Q: How to deploy multiple Spring Boot Apps with Ansible? Here is my scenario: I have created a Spring Boot Application and I would like to deploy it with Ansible. I am creating the deployment on Bluemix (I'm using the following commands for that: #Creating app cf create-app -p 8080 -d docker -b MY-POD-NAME-ZONE #Creating service cf service-create -n MY-APPLICATION-NAME-ZONE -d webpack MY-POD-NAME-ZONE 8080 #Creating route cf route -p 80 -n MY-APPLICATION-NAME-ZONE -d webpack Both applications are running successfully on Bluemix. Now if I want to do the same in my Ansible setup, do I just do a copy of the above commands? If I am right, then there is no way to provide any input parameters to the Ansible command. Do I have to pass the app and service names as input parameters? I am running the following script on our Ubuntu VMs (one for the application and one for the service) #!/bin/bash cf app create-app -p 8080 -d docker -b MY-POD-NAME-ZONE \ -c MY-APPLICATION-NAME-ZONE \ -d MY-APPLICATION-NAME-ZONE cf service create -n MY-APPLICATION-NAME-ZONE -d webpack -p 8080 MY-POD-NAME-ZONE cf route -p 80 -n MY-APPLICATION-NAME-ZONE -d webpack A: You are right in the way you approach the issue. In general and as far as I understand Bluemix uses a docker images so you should be able to use the same approach you posted with a slight change in the way you run cf commands like creating app. Here you can find a guide for how to create an image and run it on Bluemix. This is a good start point for running your Spring Boot app on Bluemix. Now on how to get at the top of the the column which was then blown over and over again until approximately 80 miles away. Then in the 1960s the highway was built, however due to local protests it was built around the mountain range and still has an elevation of 2,600 feet. The issue before us is the same as before the highway. A few miles from the construction, we begin to see the evidence of the transportation here. We begin seeing the shoulder on the highway separated from the pavement, we see mounds of dirt and rocky outcrops in the distance, we begin to see…now that you ask, "what are those?" Fences. The next thing you know, we see a large fence being erected in front of the highest peak in our little town. It seems that you can rent a giant dump truck and pick out everything that you want to build you a prison. Only, the building is called a wind turbine. This time though, you don't have to haul in rocks and dirt. You don't have to do any kind of digging. All you need to do is pay someone to do it for you. It's not quite as weird as a dumpster filled with dirt, but it is an installation of machinery, and it makes a difference. I'm definitely not the only one who finds the mountain windmills to be a symbol of the evolution of human existence. Our history of existence is a history of this movement towards increasing the amount of power that we use. While many people rightfully see this as a symbol of our destruction, for me it is much more of a symbol of our evolution. It is a plant that uses sunlight to convert the energy from the Sun into electricity to power itself. How cool is that?! Pretty cool! We have been a civilization of purely agriculturalists, who have been living off our farms for thousands of years. It wasn't until the industrial revolution that people began to see the need for a new kind of existence. That is what led to the industrial revolution and the beginning of our current age. The age of money. Our current age has been the age of knowledge. There was a time where you were only allowed to gain access to knowledge if you were a farmer. You weren't allowed to read, you weren't allowed to write. This was the age of the clergy, and it was the age of the plantation owners. That's
