Greetings, and welcome to RPGMaker Studio v2! This is a brand new version, and we'd like you to try it out and give us your feedback. So what's new? - New Features These are the big upgrades that make RPGMaker Studio v2 stand out: - Big Picture Mode support A big focus for this update has been optimizing and improving the game's resizing and porting, to take full advantage of the large resolutions and windowed mode available on today's high-end computers and mobiles. - Expanded User Interface We have reworked the user interface by adding a full-screen mode, making the interface more flexible, the controls more streamlined, and giving you the most important information at a glance. - New Features Let's dig into the details: Some of the new features in v2 include: - Post-Processing (LUTs) You can now apply LUTs (Look-Up Tables) to the textures of the game. These create a custom look to your textures, and will make the game look sharper, especially on specific graphic cards. - Reusability of User Interface Items You can now reuse your user interface elements. This means that elements you have used will never be lost when you create a new project (only their saved data, which is kept in.ini files. You can find these in the Edit menu of Project), and you can re-use them for any project later. - Animated
