Hamsterball a very fascinating game that has been designed and developed by So what makes HamsterBall.Europa (opera) Europa is an oratorio in one act composed by the American composer Louis Dimock to a libretto by the Boston librettist Henry Christophers. It was the composer's second oratorio and was written in Boston in 1877. Historical context Dimock was an established contemporary of American music composer Heman Humphrey. However, Dimock never achieved the status or popularity of Humphrey, whose 1857 setting of John Milton's Paradise Lost and several other works gained Dimock an important career, which would last for several decades. Part of Dimock's "decade" of popularity in the United States, 1855-1885, has been attributed to the success of his oratorio Europa, which premiered on October 14, 1875 in a Boston production. Europa opened with two standard hymns and included the previously unknown compositions, "The Abode of God," "The Woman on the Altar 6d1f23a050
